

KIDNAPER BEGINS 45-YEAR PRISON SENTENCE

COOPERATIVE ACTION URGED AT FARM MEET

L. S. Warbington Addresses Columbiana Farm Bureau

ANNUAL BANQUET HELD IN LISBON

Unity Among Farmers and Farm Organizations Emphasized

LISBON, June 22.—"If the present economic system as it concerns the distribution of wealth, is continued, the purchasing public will be forced to unite to protect its own interests," L. S. Warbington, of Sidney, an Ohio Farm Bureau representative, told approximately 250 Columbiana County Farm Bureau members and their guests at the organization's annual banquet last night in the Presbyterian church in Lisbon.

Music On Program

The program got under way as Rev. J. Morgan Cox, pastor of the Presbyterian church, offered the invocation, which was followed by group singing led by Mrs. J. N. Baker, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. B. Stoll.

E. M. David, president of the county farm bureau, presided. He presented Floyd Lower, county agricultural agent, as toastmaster.

A group of young musicians from Beloit gave several selections, the organization including Dorothy Rice, Jane Dugan, Rose Shank, Leslie Allen and Robert McElfresh.

Warbington, in his address, placed considerable emphasis on the fact that unity among farmers and farm organizations was the most important problem facing them today.

Urges Cooperation

"Cooperation among rural and city people, in the proper degree," he pointed out, "will result in reconstruction and will also result in a greater number of people controlling important policies which are now in the hands of a comparatively few persons."

"You people are the leaders," he declared, "and it is up to you to lead this mighty nation of ours out of its present agricultural chaos."

The program concluded with selections by the Beloit musicians.

Three Salem Youths Enter Mount Union

Three Salem students have enrolled at Mount Union college to continue their education. Two of them are graduates of this year, Emma Jane Lewis of North Lincoln, and Richard McConnor of Euclid st. Albert Hanna of Cleveland st. is the third member of the group.

Miss Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Lewis, plans to take work in the mathematics department and also preparation for the work of librarian.

Albert Hanna will take up pre-medical work and will prepare for a B. S. degree. He is the son of Mrs. Louis Hanna.

Richard McConnor son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McConnor will enter Mount Union in the fall to prepare for chemical engineering work.

Miss Margaret M. Kelly daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kelly of East Palestine has enrolled in the freshman class at Mt. Union college and will specialize in a library. She is a former resident of Ashtabula and a graduate of Ashtabula High school.

Aimee McPherson Hutton may wed for the fourth time, the evangelist's followers whisper. Homer Rodheaver, former singing master for Billy Sunday, and composer of hymns, is mentioned as Sister Aimee's next. Both are shown above.

200 AT GOSHEN GRANGE MEETING

Seven Units Represented At Tri-Program Exchange

Smith, North Lima and Goshen granges met at Goshen grange hall last night for the tri-program exchange which is being conducted in Mahoning county this year.

The business session was in charge of North Lima grange with Master Sheeley presiding. A balloting demonstration was given and the third and fourth degrees were conferred on two members.

Other granges besides Goshen represented at the session were Greenford, Garfield, Dublin and Ellsworth, about 200 members of various granges attending.

County Deputy Heintzelman announced that the county grange picnic will be held at Idora park in Youngstown, July 25.—Young people's county meeting will be held July 23.

H. A. Shinn, chairman, announced a meeting of the chairmen of the fair committees to be held at the Shinn home on the Benton rd. Wednesday evening.

An interesting report was made by the chairman of the home economics committee, Mrs. Otis Rhodes.

A program in charge of Helen Watkins, lecturer of Smith grange, was presented by members of that grange following the business hour.

A horn duet by Richard Watkins opened the entertainment, followed by an agricultural talk, "Control of the Outbreak in the Garden," by Faye Brimlow.

A reading, "The Sins of the Day," was given by Edward Stratton. Miss Peggy June Taylor entertained with a vocal solo, "The Bird's Nest" and a farce, "Dot Entertains."

Gwendolyn Stoffer and Duane McElowney. The closing feature was a talk, "How We Can Improve the Opportunities of Youth in the Community" by Joanna Dugan.

At the close of the lecture hour a lunch was served by the social committee headed by Mrs. George Jones.

The next regular meeting of Goshen grange will be July 5 at the grange hall.

Man, 85, To See Girl He Saved Years Ago

DENNISON, June 22.—J. L. Sicker, 85, was named the guest of honor for the celebration of the 62nd wedding anniversary of Barbara Ashbaker Morrow and her husband, William, today. Sixty-eight years ago, Sicker saved Barbara Ashbaker, 14, from drowning in Bacon Run, Coshocton county. He hasn't met her since that time.

Faces Manslaughter For Shooting Youth

MIDDLETOWN, June 22.—James Ballard, 22, was held today on a manslaughter charge in connection with the fatal shooting of Robert Stratton, 17, high school band drum major.

GULFORD LAKE FUNDS NEEDED, SPORTSMEN SAY

Fear Damage unless work On Concrete Apron Is Extended

APPROPRIATION IS CUT BY DAVEY

Would Have Been Used to Build Top On Present Structure

Declaring that the action of Governor Martin L. Davey in slashing $8,000 from Ohio's biennial budget, appropriated for work at Guilford dam, was a severe blow, Columbiana county sportsmen and others interested in the development of the park today expressed the fear that the dam, as constructed at present, may eventually face the threat of damage because of failure to extend the work to the proper point.

$9,050 Appropriated

The sum of $9,050 had been appropriated by the legislature for Guilford dam, but $8,000 went by the boards as the governor vetoed countless items.

According to L. H. Johnson, former commissioners' clerk, who, with Representative W. R. Phillips, was active in the Guilford improvement program, the $8,000 was to be used in building a top on the present concrete apron.

Johnson points out that the water, washing up over the top of the concrete may, possibly, seep down between the concrete and the dirt embankment. He expressed the fear that if this should happen with any regularity during cold weather, it may cause breaks in the structure.

Planned Curved Top

The legislature appropriation would have been used to erect a slightly curved top to the present concrete apron in order to keep the water back of the wall.

The Columbiana County Fish and Game Protective association was extremely active in not only endeavoring to obtain this improvement, but also was a leading force in the project from its beginning.

AUTO CRASHES INTO CULVERT

J. Bowers of Columbiana Injured In Mishap On Route 14

Jake Bowers of Columbiana escaped serious injury at 7:30 p. m. Friday when his automobile skidded after he swerved to avoid hitting two oncoming machines on Route 14, and crashed head-on into a cement culvert.

The force of the impact tore out the culvert and Bowers' car went hurtling into a stream below. Bowers was taken to his home where he was found to have received a dislocated hip and lacerations of the face and chest. State Patrolman J. E. Ivory investigated.

Several persons suffered slight cuts when an automobile driven by Eby Rowe, 40, of East Palestine R. D. 1, was struck by another car by Chester Reed, 20, of East Palestine on Route 14, near Unity. The highway patrol investigated. William Landsberger, 40, also of R. D. 1, Palestine, was riding with Rowe.

Program Given By Sons of Veterans

Att'y Samuel W. Crawford and a guest, Rev. Donald Hawkins, of East Liverpool, were speakers last evening at the open meeting of Philip Triem camp No. 43, Sons of United Veterans at the hall.

The evening's events opened with a banquet at 7 served by the members, followed by a short program of impromptu talks by members and musical selections. Rev. Hawkins entertained with several piano selections and played the accompaniment for group singing. Joseph Bentley was chairman of the entertainment committee.

George Mounts played several harmonica solos and gave a reading, a parody on Barbara Fritchley. Impromptu talks were given by several members, including J. L. Gray and S. N. Van Blaricom.

Zoo Wants Flies

PITTSBURGH, June 22.—Anyone who has tropical flies about? The Highland Park zoo could use some for its nine baby opossums from the tropics who don't seem to care for the native insects.

The zoo is getting the babies and their mother as presents from a Fairmont, W. Va., wholesale house, whose workers found them in a shipment of bananas. The young ones are about the size of a thumb and the mother is only seven inches long, tail and all.

There was a papa 'possum but he got scared and ran away.

Kidnaper Waley Leaves Courthouse After Hearing Sentence

Harmon Waley

U. S. Marshall Chitty

After pleading guilty to the kidnaping of little George Weyerhaeuser, nine-year-old son of Tacoma, Wash., and being sentenced to 45 years' imprisonment, Harmon M. Waley is pictured left, being escorted from federal courthouse by U. S. Marshall A. J.

Mrs. Waley with son

Chitty, Federal Judge Edward E. Cushman, however, refused to accept a guilty plea from Mrs. Waley, 19, seen, right, with son. Mrs. Waley must appear later before the court to advise how many of the government allegations she admits to be true.

Golf Club Plans Weekend Contests; Awards to Winners

The contest committee of the Salem Golf club, of which N. I. Walken is chairman, has decided to arrange for some contest every Saturday or Sunday during the season, and to have as many different kinds of contests as possible.

Prizes will be given in each tournament and in the Merchants and Manufacturers' tournaments the winner of each trophy will be given a small sterling silver cup in addition to having his name inscribed on the big cup.

The committee also is trying to arrange matches with other golf clubs in this vicinity.

Tournaments thus far arranged follow:

Sunday, June 23—Blind bogey.

Sunday, June 30—Mystery tournament.

Thursday, July 4—18-hole medal play with full handicap.

Qualifying rounds for the Manufacturers' cup will be played from July 3 to 10. This will be 18-hole medal play with full handicap, the low 32 to qualify.

Attend Services At Canfield Church

Rev. R. D. Walter, pastor of the Salem Presbyterian church and members of this church were in Canfield last night to attend a service in connection with the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Canfield Presbyterian church, of which Dr. L. P. McCulloch is minister.

Mrs. Katherine Manekald, Mrs. Will Turner and Mrs. A. H. Yengling and daughter, Miss Alberta, attended from Salem.

Members of the Mahoning Presbytery attended the celebration, Dr. Herbert J. Hudnut of Youngstown bringing the official greeting of the presbytery to the Canfield church. Rev. R. D. Walter led in prayer at the service.

Dr. Charles L. Zorbaugh of Columbus, executive secretary of the Synod of Ohio, was speaker, his topic being, "Facing the Second 100 years."

Sunday will be the closing day of the celebration, with Dr. Robert E. Pew as the speaker. At 12:30 p. m. an old fashioned picnic dinner will be held and at 2 p. m. there will be an informal meeting. Rev. Thomas L. Kiernan and Rev. J. Carroll Wright, former pastors, will speak.

Pastor Arrives On Island With Gable

AVALON, SANTA CATALINA ISLAND, Calif., June 22.—The Rev. Samuel Williams, Hopedale, O., was on the same island with Clark Gable today, determined to meet the movie actor and persuade him to forsake his profession for the pulpit.

The minister arrived here last night and today planned to see Gable who is on location.

Several previous attempts by Mr. Williams to reach Gable have been unsuccessful.

Youngstown Doctor Guilty of Charges

CLEVELAND, June 22.—A federal court jury convicted Dr. N. J. Nardac of Youngstown on five counts of an indictment charging him with violation of the Harrison Narcotics Act yesterday.

LONG PRESSING TAXES ON RICH Huey Jumps Into Fight To Force Immediate Legislation

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, June 22.—Borrowing a text from the French revolution, Senator Long (D. La.) jumped today into a fresh fight to force immediate tax-the-rich legislation, whether or not President Roosevelt desires action in that direction at this session.

"No enemies to the left" was the topic Long chose for a speech from the senate floor today on President Roosevelt's message calling for taxes to break up great fortunes and cut down large incomes. Long said the phrase was used by Danton and Robespierre, leaders in the French revolution, and meant they would go as far as anyone.

He'll Go, Too Though the Louisiana senator has expressed skepticism as to how far the president actually would go in "decentralizing wealth," he explained that the title of his address today meant that "as far as President Roosevelt goes to the left I'll go with him."

He added that one of his purposes in seeking the senate floor was to contrast the president's "promises" with his "performance." Only a few hours before, 22 senate liberals led by Senator LaFollette (Wis.) had joined in starting a movement to "keep congress here all summer if necessary" to get action on the president's tax-the-rich program at this session.

Though there was still confusion as to whether President Roosevelt would prefer action now or in a later year, his message obviously had fired the advocates of higher levies on wealth to renewed efforts. LaFollette disclosed that 14 Democrats

Overrules Motion In Insurance Case

The federal government's motion for a new trial in the case of Raymond Johns, of 744 Third st., Salem, who won a $3,000 government insurance case in federal court, Youngstown, May 28, yesterday was overruled by Judge John Paul Jones, it was announced here today. Johns is a disabled war veteran.

E. Liverpool Names School Principal

EAST LIVERPOOL, June 22.—At a meeting here last night, the board of education announced the appointment of George A. Beck, of Weirton, assistant superintendent of schools in Hancock county, W. Va., as principal of the high school here to succeed B. G. Ludwig, whose contract expired this spring. The vote was unanimous.

Halt Criticism

TIFFIN, June 22.—Delegates to the conference of the Ohio Synod of the Reformed Church halted an attempt of a special committee to criticize Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt for "the precedent set for young people by the first lady of the land." The report "lamented the growth of the cigaret habit." The clause referring to Mrs. Roosevelt was deleted when the report was challenged.

A. P. Morris Named State Auto Trustee

A. P. Morris of Salem, manager of the Columbiana County Motor club, was elected a trustee of the Ohio State Automobile association, meeting at Cedar Point last night. Other trustees are: D. W. Armstrong, Zanesville and W. E. Stephenson of Findlay.

The association elected Frank E. Whittemore of Akron as president. Other officers are: Carl Stander of Mansfield, second vice president; Clifford Murfin, Portsmouth, third, and D. W. Stoup of Norwalk, fourth.

HINTS RAIDING OF OHIO FUNDS But They Are Not The Schools, O. S. U. President Says

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, O., June 22.—Ohio awaited today the next move of Governor Davey in a turbulent fight being waged over the $8,800,000 reductions made in the biennial budget bill.

A fresh verbal blast from President George W. Rightmire of Ohio State university that "there may be interests raiding the treasury of Ohio, as the governor has said, but they are not the five state-supported universities" added fuel to the controversy.

Chambers of commerce in public statements were divided in their stand. Legal advisers of the governor continued to search for a means of transferring funds for the necessary functions without encountering legal obstacles.

Drives New Wedge

Driving a new wedge in the principal attack which has been made against the slashes—reduction of funds for state-supported colleges—Dr. Rightmire carried his fight to the people last night in an address over the university's radio station. Dr. Rightmire purchased his remarks frequently by questioning the governor's assertion that the appropriations were a "raid on the treasury."

He outlined in detail how the reductions deprived the university

Hungry Thief Turns Out to Be Mere Boy

DAYTON, June 22.—Dayton's "hungry burglar," who during recent weeks, according to police, has killed canary birds in homes he has entered; upset contents of stew kettles at others; and in nearly every instance has "looted" refrigerators of their contents today was revealed as a 13-year-old boy.

Confessing to Detectives M. C. Kirkpatrick, C. C. Croft and W. T. Dempsey the burglary of 23 homes, the youth registered as Richard Wallace told them, they reported, he looted the houses "just because I wanted to."

Fatally Burned

FINDLAY, June 22.—Mrs. Oliver Weiss 45, of Elida, was burned fatally today when a can of kerosene exploded as she was kindling a fire in the home of Charles Steinman, at Honora. She was Steinman's housekeeper.

MIDWEST HAILS SUMMER ADVENT

Spring and Its Floods Leave 200 Dead, High Property Loss

(By Associated Press) CHICAGO, June 22.—The midwest welcomed summer today with enthusiasm engendered by its unkindly treatment from spring, which left nearly 200 dead, hundreds injured. Thousands homeless and property damage that ran far into the millions of dollars.

Drenched by rains in contrast to the parched spring of 1934, a dozen states in the heart of the nation looked to the new season for relief from floods and windstorms.

Summer, which made its official entry at 3:38 a. m. (Eastern Standard time), found four persons dead and 25 injured by a tornado which struck near the Texas-Arkansas border last night. Elsewhere in Arkansas two more levees crumbled as rivers raged beyond their banks, leaving some 800 families homeless.

Kentucky and Illinois, which earlier in the spring were among midwestern states counting heavy flood losses, watched rivers rise anew as torrential rains swelled rivers, swept away bridges, washed out roads and inundated farm land.

Kansas, earlier sufferer from high waters, welcomed with summer the halfway mark in the "tornado season" and congratulated itself on the paucity of disastrous winds this year.

North Dakota counted one dead from high winds and Missouri had a lightning fatality as spring bade farewell.

High waters brought by the rainiest spring in years were receding in some states, particularly Kansas, Nebraska, Texas and Missouri. Along with the heavy precipitation, mid-America shivered through subnormal temperatures that further retarded crops delayed by the excess moisture.

28 Residents Seek Sidewalk Repairs

A total of 28 applications from residents of the city for sidewalk repairs and construction of new ones were on hand today at the office of City Engineer F. S. Barkhoff for submission to the state FERA office at Columbus as a supplement to the city's first sidewalk project already approved.

Barkhoff said today that he planned to submit the applications to the state on Monday. Increasing interest is being shown in the sidewalk projects, Barkhoff pointed out. Those seeking repairs to their present walks or construction of new ones have only to provide the material; the FERA provides the labor.

Stillman Back From Washington Visit

COLUMBUS, June 22.—C. C. Stillman, federal relief administrator for Ohio, returned today from Washington with the statement that "I don't know how much money Ohio will receive under the new works program."

Stillman was in conference today with the heads of all relief departments,

WALEY PLEADS GUILTY UNDER LINDBERGH LAW

Federal Court In Tacoma Awaits Final Answer From His Wife

HER FIRST PLEA WAS GUILTY, TOO

Her Attorneys Argue She Didn't Know of Abduction At First

By LENAND HANNUM, Associated Press Staff Writer (Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press)

TACOMA, Wash., June 22.—Without the aid of her self-confident husband, 19-year-old Margaret Thulin Waley faced a choice today between a fight for possible freedom or again pleading guilty to complicity in the $200,000 kidnaping of little George Weyerhaeuser.

Her answer was to be given in federal court today.

She thought it over last night while her 24-year-old ex-convict husband, Harmon, began serving a 45-year sentence in nearby McNeil federal penitentiary.

It was the first of what may be a lifetime of nights apart. They had been held in separate cells, but under the same roofs, ever since their arrest June 8 and 9, in Salt Lake City where Margaret's spending spree with ransom money led to their capture.

She faced all the unfamiliar matters of court procedure today with all strange faces around her and no grinning, sneering, self-confident bravo of a husband nearby to signal her what to say and what not to say.

Waley was immediately sentenced and taken to prison after she pleaded guilty under the Lindbergh kidnaping law yesterday. He also received a two-year concurrent sentence for plotting the abduction with the fugitive William Dainard, alias William Mahan.

Margaret pleaded guilty two yesterday, but Judge E. E. Cushman refused to accept the plea after her attorney, Joseph J. O'Brien, asked leniency on the ground she had known nothing of the kidnaping until after the little son of the wealthy lumber and logging dynasty had been stolen.

Judge Cushman asked her if she could read English. When she said "yes" in a colorless but clear voice, a clerk handed her a copy of the indictment and Judge Cushman admonished her to take it to jail with her, read it, and come back today and decide whether she was guilty or not, as charged.

In exchange for yesterday's guilty pleas, the U. S. government dismissed an indictment charging Mrs. Waley with mailing the second of the ransom notes to George's father, J. F. Weyerhaeuser, Jr., and postponed until the first motion day in October an indictment charging Waley and Dainard with mailing extortion letters to Weyerhaeuser.

If Mrs. Waley follows her original plan and pleads guilty again today, Judge Cushman may sentence her to anything up to life imprisonment. If she decides to plead not guilty and stand trial, she may be acquitted.

Attorneys point out that old English law, a part of a modern federal law, assumes that a wife takes part in a crime with her husband, because she has no will of her own, and is under her husband's coercion. It is the old law of a wife being a husband's chattel.

Mrs. Waley sat calm faced, staring straight ahead, expressionless, while her husband pleaded for her. She sat expressionless, her lips pursed out, while her husband redoubled but took his 45-year sentence "standing up."

Wrong Appointment

Columbus, June 22.—Charles Elers of Cincinnati, is a holdover member of the state board of pharmacy and Governor Davey had no legal right to appoint J. W. Dyke of Marietta, to the post, Att'y Gen. John W. Bricker has ruled.

Their Own Fault

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., June 22.—Mr. Roosevelt went to see Yale race Harvard in boats today. Funny he don't go to see the big league row at Poughkeepsie. These western colleges can drag an anchor and beat Yale or Harvard.

They are seating a new senator today. The whole argument is whether he is 30 years old or not. West Virginia keeps no records, and they can't remember back that far.

Funny thing about being a United States senator, the only thing the law says you have to be 30 years old. Not another single requirement necessary. They just figure that a man that old got nobody to blame but himself if he gets caught in there.

IN THE AMERICAN MANNER

The social security bill passed by the senate 76 to 6 and now in conference of the two houses of congress is an example of legislation in the American manner. It is big, breezy and inclusive. It aims to do virtually overnight what other countries have been struggling to do for decades. In many ways it is regarded as a legislative panacea.

Those who criticize it for these reasons are an ineffective minority, as was shown plainly by the house and senate votes. The house adopted the bill by a vote of 127 to 87. After all, when the bill is compared with such programs as the one proposed by Dr. Townsend it is not extreme at all, but mild and conservative.

Though unable to make itself effective, the minority critical of the security bill because of what seems to them its unreasonable scope at the outset is confident its position will be justified by experience. They believe, that is, that the difficulty of successful administration has been increased unwisely by undertaking too much at once. At the other extreme stand those who condemn the undertaking for being too cautious.

The difference in viewpoints illustrates vividly the distinction between conservatism and liberalism. To liberals, virtually nothing is impossible until it has been proved impossible. To conservatives, nothing is possible until it has been proved possible. Hence, the conservative mind is always cautious, lest it run up against reality without adequate preparation, while the liberal mind, believing progress and change are one and the same thing, is ever willing to undertake another step.

The incessant struggle between the two types, complicated by the presence of radicals and reactionaries, is the generating force in politics. The social security bill was produced from that struggle. Eventually, a method of administration will be developed in the same way. Possibly, it could have been developed more easily if a more cautious approach had been made, but that decision is beyond discussion now. America has rushed headlong into the era of guaranteed security in its traditional manner.

RELIABLE INFORMATION

The blue eagle's claws have been filed off, its wings clipped and its beak muzzled, but it still has a voice. It can rattle, even if it can't scratch and bite.

By presidential order the revised NRA will support a "fact finding" board, instructed to keep tabs on what industrialists and businessmen are doing along the line of price and wage changes.

According to certain spokesmen for the administration, "chiseling," that arch crime of 1933, is widespread. They are filled anew with zeal to make this a more perfect world.

There isn't much they can do—even less than there was when they still recognized legal responsibility for the various practices which collectively are known as "chiseling." But they will do what they can do.

It seems to be limited to publishing "reliable information" about practices which are displeasing to them. By this means, the fact finding board will offset the "propaganda" which it expects special interests will level against the revised NRA. The ideal of cooperation between government and business seems to be waning again.

In other words, the board's function will be to keep alert for chances to say, "I told you so." An employer in Podunk cuts wages—"I told you so." A manufacturer in New York cuts prices—"I told you so." Maybe the country will get so worked up it will demand the restoration of the recovery act in its original form. That seems to be what President Roosevelt has in mind.

Once upon a time the outline of such a plan would have had businessmen up in arms. As it is, with the memory of the original NRA still in mind, they can sigh with relief. A government which makes a policy of "telling on" an employer who is running his business his own way is pretty mild stuff compared with a government that could use a boycott, fines, imprisonment and downright ruin to make its citizens toe the mark.

THE STARS SAY

For Sunday, June 23

Sunday's horoscope holds auguries that must be read as generally adverse and disquieting except for a presage of a minor change or journey that may be found welcome. Employment may cause vexation and disappointment, and all pertaining to writings and contracts are under a similar baneful sway. Personal matters and finances may likewise cause concern or annoyance.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of much concern, vexation and annoyance in both their business and private affairs. Finances may give anxiety. A minor change or journey may bring benefits. Be careful with work and employment, lest friction call for reprimand.

A child born on this day may be talented, kindly and popular but difficult to understand.

Notable nativity: Prince of Wales.

For Monday, June 24

Monday's astrological forecast is rather a perplexing one, with tokens of profitable and friendly associations, and at the same time a menace of strife, contention and tempestuous and impulsive conduct.

With rigid curb on tongue and temper such tempest and turmoil may be avoided and thus social and affectional relations may be assured. Extravagances and losses should also be guarded against.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year in which all depends upon their own self-restraint, calm judgment and conservative conduct. Shun violence, passion and turmoil and there is prospect of much benefit and pleasure in private relations. Also shun extravagance and loss.

A child born on this day may have many kindly and friendly impulses, thereby winning popularity and benefits for itself. At the same time, its outspoken and foolhardy acts may cause it regret and loss.

Notable nativity: Lord Kitchener, British admiralty.

O. O. McINTYRE
NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, June 22—When one has exactly 35 minutes to turn out a column it's no picnic. Either this one must be off to the printer in that time or something else will fill the space. And permitting something else to fill the space is always dangerous. It might by sheer excellence become permanent.

The inclination is to reprint some old column and label it "By Request" but editors are hep to that one. So a fellow must muddle through. Instead I shall fill in a few paragraphs with a letter that pleased me. Pleading because it is from that hard-boiled, crack newspaperman, Gene Fowler.

And because it came—of all places—from far-away Damascus. Said he: "A muezzin on a minaret was bawling some passages from The Koran today and made me think of you. It seemed to say 'Odd McIntyre, Odd McIntyre sells old clothes.' So I'm dropping a line to say something I've never told you. 'But which I have long felt. You have always been interesting and fertile of brain without once, to my knowledge, having had to quit being a newspaperman and hurting someone. So best of luck from out here where all the aromas are not wafted from the cedars of Lebanon.'"

Speaking of The Koran, I once picked up for 18 cents in a 4th avenue book shop an English translation of the Moslem prophet's philosophy. I fell away from its charm upon learning that to Islam those with blue eyes are destined to eternal fires. Many friends are blue eyed. My wife is blue eyed, the blue of corn flowers. But in the introductory passage to the Mohammed treatise I ran across a word I never discovered before. Namely: monoglot. That is what I am—a monoglot i. e. a person who has command of one language only.

I wish someone with a gusto for fine food—someone such as Ford Madox Ford, Julian Street or George Rector—would annotate a few paragraphs on the why of the appeal of those neatly bleak, open kitchen places with hickory burning fires. Whenever I'm hungry I can't stay away from them, but once arriving, I eat but little. The customers are booming and hearty and suggest stoking. Yet I can go to the sedate and tiny orchestral places—Gene and Ernest's Colony, for instance—with the appetite of a sick canary and pop vest buttons in shameless gorging.

A sudden paucity of unread modern books drove me to Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables" the other rainy night. For two hours I was gazing again across the acres of chimney pots, wandering at twilight through Parc Monceau, prowling through the shadowy porticos of Place de Vosges, dropping in for a croissant and glass of milk at the dainty Kendall Lee-like lady's boulangerie in rue des Petit Champs and riding by post-chaise along the Seine toward St. Cloud. So real was the transition I expected to see a shawled and mustachioed concierge when I looked out the window toward a Waldorf doorway instead of the night hawk taxi driver.

It interests me that the sons of Eddie Collins, baseball star, and Martin Quigley, movie magazine editor, have consecrated their lives to religion. The Collins lad is in an Episcopal theological seminary and Quigley's son at the proper age is to study for a Jesuit priesthood. The fathers are men of the world whose lives have been many-faceted. That, in the buzz-fuzz of rampant materialism, they should want their sons to spread the spiritual solace of the Scriptures will hearten many who see faith tumbling.

Miss Winifred Arnold left Wednesday morning for a week's visit with friends and relatives in Pittsburgh.

Today

A Review of the Day's News

By Arthur Brishane

You observe an official desire to belittle, discourage, hold up, to scorn anybody able to do a little better than somebody else.

If college football rules penalized any boy who might run farther than two yards with ball, that would not help football.

You do not help United States prosperity when you discourage officially men that happen to have brains enough to succeed better than other men.

Men like E. H. Harriman, who built the Union Pacific, J. J. Hill, who extended railroads into the northeast, helping every farmer, Henry Ford, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., Walter Chrysler, and others, some forgotten, that have had the energy and intelligence to put the United States on wheels, have not been detrimental to general welfare. Little men with brains, little fortunes and little ideas cannot build a big country.

In Africa when a savage kills a lion, they let him have 50 fat, black wives. He doesn't need them, but is allowed to have them because it is important to have lions killed, and the 50 women make no difference.

If an American wants 50 golden millions for doing good work, let him have them. It is cheap at the price, he never takes the millions to heaven, and his children usually scatter them.

Apart from all that, thank heaven for old age pensions that now seem secure, while the poor house fades into the background.

Early in the day, Wall Street reading the President's ideas on taxing corporations, inheritance tax, etc., showed signs of alarm.

"Blue chip" stocks, dropped as much as $3 a share. Then brokers, speculators, investors, apparently against the dangers of the future, said years are fleeting, nothing lasts, and prices eased back.

Wise ones, with shaking heads, said "Waldorf Astor knew what he was about, when he took his family, himself and his money to England, turned British subject, and sold his valuable New York real estate at top prices, before 1929. He couldn't get the taxes for many of those properties now. He must have 'known something.'"

Others equally wise, said, "what did I tell you when J. Pierpont Morgan began selling his pictures for as much as $600,000 apiece, and recently began selling millions of dollars worth of miniatures in London?"

"Morgan the wise son of a wise father, knows it is better to sell your pictures yourself than have the government sell them for you, and take half after you are dead."

Club Holds Meeting
At Washingtonville

WASHINGTONVILLE, June 22.—The Fortnightly club members were entertained on Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. C. A. Stouffer. Other guests were Mrs. Frank Spear, Mrs. Russell Smith, Mrs. Charles Vignon and Miss Mary Fitzsimmons.

Cards were played with honors won by Mrs. Frank Spear and Mrs. H. L. McIntosh. The hostess served lunch. In four weeks the club will be entertained in the home of Mrs. Mark Klingemith.

Marriage Announced

Miss Esther Kirtley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Kirtley of East Palestine and Walter Tourdot of this place were married at Salem on Thursday by Rev. H. J. Thompson pastor of the Methodist church and a former pastor of East Palestine. They will make their home in Leetonia. Mr. Tourdot is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dalrymple, where he has made his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sanders and daughter Martha of Columbiana, were Friday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray McBride and children of Wampum, were Sunday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ritchie.

Mrs. Jane Schilling of Cleveland, and Levi Anderson of Leetonia were Wednesday callers in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Girard.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Benninghoff and daughter, Leah Jane, of Columbiana spent Thursday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barton were Sunday guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. McIntosh.

James Brierley of Beverly, N. J., is spending a few days in the home of his niece, Mrs. T. C. Riddle and family.

Mr. and Mrs. George Chantry and daughters Esther and Ruth, and Charles Hoizan of Sharon, were Sunday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Baker.

Children's day will be observed at the Methodist church on Sunday morning, following the Sunday school services.

Pythian Sisters Meet
A social hour was enjoyed, following the regular business session at Pride of the Valley Temple No. 406, Pythian Sisters on Tuesday evening. Cards and contests were played with honors won by Mrs. Elmer Indermill, Mrs. Lloyd Culler and Mrs. Ray Davis.

Misses Charlotte Bossert and Ruth Weikart were Youngstown callers on Wednesday.

Mrs. Effie Gilbert of Youngstown spent Wednesday at her home here.

Mrs. Eliza Chappell and son Joe of Salem, were Wednesday callers in the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Weikart.

Mrs. H. L. McIntosh and Mrs. Ansel Senhiser were Youngstown visitors on Wednesday.

Miss Ruth DeLauter spent a few days this week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gorman at Salem.

Kaiser Quiet on Nazi Affairs

Recent photo.

With Hitler and Nazi activities constantly in headlines of the international press, speculation turns to ex-Kaiser and his reaction to events in his fatherland. It seems unbelievable that this man of boundless energies, whose ambition was to rule the world, whose iron will directed the forces of the Central Powers in the World war, should quietly sit by when history is in the making in his native country. Yet such is the case. At 76 the ex-Kaiser carries on a quiet existence in self-imposed exile at his castle at Doorn, Holland, a quiet little village less than 100 miles from the German border.

Treatment of Wood-Tick Fever

RECENTLY I GAVE a little message to my readers who are planning to go camping, fishing or hiking this summer. I warned them against the dangers of malaria, typhoid and other diseases which may be encountered in rural sections. At another time I described what to do in the event of a bite of an infected wood-tick.

This ailment is known as "Rocky mountain spotted fever," or wood-tick fever. It is only within the past half century that the disease has been recognized. We are indebted to the United States public health service for our present advanced knowledge regarding it.

Reported In East, Too

For many years wood-tick fever was believed to be confined to the Rocky mountain districts. But cases have been reported in eastern sections of the country.

Infected ticks are carried by animals that roam through wooded sections. It is rarely found where the land is cleared or cultivated.

The disease appears in early spring and continues to be seen until late fall. Rocky mountain spotted fever is often mistaken for typhus, because the early symptoms are identical with those of typhus fever. The sufferer complains of fever, chills, headache and severe pains of the body. There is a characteristic rash of the skin and lining of the mouth.

As a rule, this breaking out of the skin appears about the third day after the onset of fever. The skin has a mottled or spotted look, hence the name the disease has been given. The ailment is serious and may even prove fatal if neglected.

Because of this danger it is imperative that campers and automobile tourists should be warned. If they travel through infested regions they should take every precaution against contracting the infection.

If bitten by a wood-tick the insect should be removed immediately. The area of the bite should be thoroughly cleansed, followed by cauterization of the wound. It is always best to consult a physician for the aftercare.

Wood-ticks are easily recognized. They are reddish-brown in color. The female tick has a small, silver-colored shield on its back, while the male tick has black and silvery white lines in the same region.

Answers to Health Queries
Freddie S. Q.—How much should a girl of 19, 5 feet 5 inches tall, weigh, also a woman aged 41, 5 feet 2 inches tall?

A.—They should weigh respectively about 127 and 133 pounds. This is about the average weight for people of this age and height, as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

Bernice B. Q.—How much should a girl aged 14, 5 feet 6 inches tall weigh?

A.—She should weigh about 124 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of this age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

IN THE AMERICAN MANNER

The social security bill passed by the senate 76 to 6 and now in conference of the two houses of congress is an example of legislation in the American manner. It is big, breezy and inclusive. It aims to do virtually overnight what other countries have been struggling to do for decades. In many ways it is regarded as a legislative panacea.

Those who criticize it for these reasons are an ineffective minority, as was shown plainly by the house and senate votes. The house adopted the bill by a vote of 127 to 87. After all, when the bill is compared with such programs as the one proposed by Dr. Townsend it is not extreme at all, but mild and conservative.

Though unable to make itself effective, the minority critical of the security bill because of what seems to them its unreasonable scope at the outset is confident its position will be justified by experience. They believe, that is, that the difficulty of successful administration has been increased unwisely by undertaking too much at once. At the other extreme stand those who condemn the undertaking for being too cautious.

The difference in viewpoints illustrates vividly the distinction between conservatism and liberalism. To liberals, virtually nothing is impossible until it has been proved impossible. To conservatives, nothing is possible until it has been proved possible. Hence, the conservative mind is always cautious, lest it run up against reality without adequate preparation, while the liberal mind, believing progress and change are one and the same thing, is ever willing to undertake another step.

The incessant struggle between the two types, complicated by the presence of radicals and reactionaries, is the generating force in politics. The social security bill was produced from that struggle. Eventually, a method of administration will be developed in the same way. Possibly, it could have been developed more easily if a more cautious approach had been made, but that decision is beyond discussion now. America has rushed headlong into the era of guaranteed security in its traditional manner.

RELIABLE INFORMATION

The blue eagle's claws have been filed off, its wings clipped and its beak muzzled, but it still has a voice. It can tattle, even if it can't scratch and bite.

By presidential order the revised NRA will support a "fact finding" board, instructed to keep tabs on what industrialists and businessmen are doing along the line of price and wage changes.

According to certain spokesmen for the administration, "chiseling," that arch crime of 1933, is widespread. They are filled anew with zeal to make this a more perfect world.

There isn't much they can do—even less than there was when they still recognized legal responsibility for the various practices which collectively are known as "chiseling." But they will do what they can do.

It seems to be limited to publishing "reliable information" about practices which are displeasing to them. By this means, the fact finding board will offset the "propaganda" which it expects special interests will level against the revised NRA. The ideal of cooperation between government and business seems to be waning again.

In other words, the board's function will be to keep alert for chances to say, "I told you so." An employer in Podunk cuts wages—"I told you so." A manufacturer in New York cuts prices—"I told you so." Maybe the country will get so worked up it will demand the restoration of the recovery act in its original form. That seems to be what President Roosevelt has in mind.

Once upon a time the outline of such a plan would have had businessmen up in arms. As it is, with the memory of the original NRA still in mind, they can sigh with relief. A government which makes a policy of "telling on" an employer who is running his business his own way is pretty mild stuff compared with a government that could use a boycott, fines, imprisonment and downright ruin to make its citizens toe the mark.

THE STARS SAY

For Sunday, June 23

Sunday's horoscope holds auguries that must be read as generally adverse and disquieting except for a presage of a minor change or journey that may be found welcome. Employment may cause vexation and disappointment, and all pertaining to writings and contracts are under a similar baneful sway. Personal matters and finances may likewise cause concern or annoyance.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of much concern, vexation and annoyance in both their business and private affairs. Finances may give anxiety. A minor change or journey may bring benefits. Be careful with work and employment, lest friction call for reprimand.

A child born on this day may be talented, kindly and popular but difficult to understand.

Notable nativity: Prince of Wales.

For Monday, June 24

Monday's astrological forecast is rather a perplexing one, with tokens of profitable and friendly associations, and at the same time a menace of strife, contention and tempestuous and impulsive conduct.

With rigid curb on tongue and temper such tempest and turmoil may be avoided and thus social and affectional relations may be assured. Extravagances and losses should also be guarded against.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year in which all depends upon their own self-restraint, calm judgment and conservative conduct. Shun violence, passion and turmoil and there is prospect of much benefit and pleasure in private relations. Also shun extravagance and loss.

A child born on this day may have many kindly and friendly impulses, thereby winning popularity and benefits for itself. At the same time, its outspoken and foolhardy acts may cause it regret and loss.

Notable nativity: Lord Kitchener, British admiralty.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, June 22—When one has exactly 35 minutes to turn out a column it's no picnic. Either this one must be off to the printer in that time or something else will fill the space. And permitting something else to fill the space is always dangerous. It might by sheer excellence become permanent.

The inclination is to reprint some old column and label it "By Request" but editors are hep to that one. So a fellow must muddle through. Instead I shall fill in a few paragraphs with a letter that pleased me. Pleading because it is from that hard-boiled, crack newspaperman, Gene Fowler.

And because it came of all places—from far-away Damascus. Said he: "A muezzin on a minaret was bawling some passages from The Koran today and made me think of you. It seemed to say 'Odd McIntyre, Odd McIntyre sells old clothes.' So I'm dropping a line to say something I've never told you. 'But which I have long felt. You have always been introducing and fertile of brain without once, to my knowledge, having had to quit being a newspaperman and hurting someone. So best of luck from out here where all the aromas are not wafted from the cedars of Lebanon.'"

Speaking of The Koran, I once picked up for 18 cents in a 4th avenue book shop an English translation of the Moslem prophet's philosophy. I fell away from its charm upon learning that to Islam those with blue eyes are destined to eternal fires. Many friends are blue eyed. My wife is blue eyed, the blue of corn flowers. But in the introductory passage to the Mohammed treatise I ran across a word I never discovered before. Namely: monoglot. That is what I am—a monoglot i. e. a person who has command of one language only.

I wish someone with a gusto for fine food—someone such as Ford Madox Ford, Julian Street or George Reector—would annotate a few paragraphs on the why of the appeal of those neatly bleak, open kitchen places with hickory burning fires. Whenever I'm hungry I can't stay away from them, but once arriving, I eat but little. The customers are booming and hearty and suggest stoking. Yet I can go to the sedate and tiny orchestral places—Gene and Ernest's Colony, for instance—with the appetite of a sick canary and pop vest buttons in shameless gorging.

A sudden paucity of unread modern books drove me to Victor Hugo's "Les Misérables" the other rainy night. For two hours I was gazing again across the acres of chimney pots, wandering at twilight through Parc Monceau, prowling through the shadowy porticoes of Place de Vosges, dropping in for a croissant and glass of milk at the dainty Kendall Lee-like lady's boulangerie in rue des Petit Champs and riding by post-chaise along the Seine toward St. Cloud. So real was the transition I expected to see a shawled and mustachioed conclave when I looked out the window toward a Waldorf doorway instead of the night hawk taxi driver.

It interests me that the sons of Eddie Collins, baseball star, and Martin Quigley, movie magazine editor, have consecrated their lives to religion. The Collins lad is in an Episcopal theological seminary and Quigley's son at the proper age is to study for a Jesuit priesthood. The fathers are men of the world whose lives have been many-faceted. That, in the buzz-fuzz of rampant materialism, they should want their sons to spread the spiritual solace of the Scriptures will hearten many who see faith tumbling.

Wise ones, with shaking heads, said "Waldorf Astor knew what he was about, when he took his family, himself and his money to England, turned British subject, and sold his valuable New York real estate at top prices, before 1929. He couldn't get the taxes for many of those properties now. He must have known something."

Others equally wise, said, "what did I tell you when J. Pierpont Morgan began selling his pictures for as much as $600,000 apiece, and recently began selling millions of dollars worth of miniatures in London?"

"Morgan the wise son of a wise father, knows it is better to sell your pictures yourself than have the government sell them for you, and take half after you are dead."

Kaiser Quiet on Nazi Affairs

Residence at Doorn

With Hitler and Nazi activities constantly in headlines of the international press, speculation turns to ex-Kaiser and his reaction to events in his fatherland. It seems unbelievable that this man of boundless energies, whose ambition was to rule the world, whose iron will directed the forces of the Central Powers in the World war, should quietly sit by when history is in the making in his native country. Yet such is the case. At 76 the ex-Kaiser carries on a quiet existence in self-imposed exile at his castle at Doorn, Holland, a quiet little village less than 100 miles from the German border.

Treatment of Wood-Tick Fever

RECENTLY I GAVE a little message to my readers who are planning to go camping, fishing or hiking this summer. I warned them against the dangers of malaria, typhoid and other diseases which may be encountered in rural sections. At another time I described what to do in the event of a bite of an infected wood-tick.

This ailment is known as "Rocky mountain spotted fever" or "wood-tick fever." It is only within the past half century that the disease has been recognized. We are indebted to the United States public health service for our present advanced knowledge regarding it.

Reported in East, Too
For many years wood-tick fever was believed to be confined to the Rocky mountain districts. But cases have been reported in eastern sections of the country.

Infected ticks are carried by animals that roam through wooded sections. It is rarely found where the land is cleared or cultivated.

The disease appears in early spring and continues to be seen until late fall. Rocky mountain spotted fever is often mistaken for typhus, because the early symptoms are identical with those of typhus fever. The sufferer complains of fever, chills, headache and severe pains of the body. There is a characteristic rash of the skin and lining of the mouth.

As a rule, this breaking out of the skin appears about the third day after the onset of fever. The skin has a mottled or spotted look, hence the name the disease has been given. The ailment is serious and may even prove fatal if neglected.

Because of this danger it is imperative that campers and automobile tourists should be warned. If they travel through infested regions they should take every precaution against contracting the infection.

If bitten by a wood-tick the insect should be removed immediately. The area of the bite should be thoroughly cleaned, followed by cauterization of the wound. It is always best to consult a physician for the aftercare.

Wood-ticks are easily recognized. They are reddish-brown in color. The female tick has a small, silver-colored shield on its back, while the male tick has black and silvery white lines in the same region.

Answers to Health Queries
Freddie S. Q.—How much should a girl of 19, 5 feet 5 inches tall, weigh, also a woman aged 41, 5 feet 2 inches tall?

A—They should weigh respectively about 127 and 133 pounds. This is about the average weight for people of this age and height, as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

Bernice B. Q.—How much should a girl aged 14, 5 feet 6 inches tall weigh?

A—She should weigh about 124 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of this age and height, as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

WHOSE WIFE? A CYRUS K. MANTEL MURDER MYSTERY

by CLADYS SHAW ERSKINE AND IVAN FIRTH

CHAPTER XVII

"Better not!" Roger was obviously nervous. "She's been flighty as a kitten, and as cross as two sticks most of the time."

"Seems funny to think of Millie that way," said Donetta. "She used to be with Kate and the rest of the gang before she married you."

"Thornley... and she was always a meek little thing then, afraid of her own shadow, she used to be."

Thornley's bloodshot eyes looked at her keenly, then dropped.

"She's not like that any more," he laughed. "Believe me, she sure isn't. You know, they say it takes a four-foot woman to terrify a six-foot man."

"And I'll say you look properly terrified," said Schuyler Millbanks. "Maybe you mean petrified?" suggested Gerry demurely.

They all laughed, and then Millbanks took the serious question of ordering under consideration.

With gusto the four healthy young people commenced on the ham and all that went with it, as well as it arrived.

Gerry and Roger chatted and laughed with all the abandon of two careless, chance acquaintances. Neither cared a bit about the other, and each knew it.

Millbanks and Donetta, on the other hand, had dropped into that serene that comes when two people, meeting for the first time, find a queerly intimate bond between them for no known reason, a nebulous thing that rests like a veil of shyness between the seeking eyes of each to each, a fog that guards the mountain tops of romance, from the too sudden gleam of an ardent sun.

The jolly, raucous voice of Kate Doyle broke into their foursome.

"Hello, there, Roger Thornley!" she boomed. "Well, now ain't this great? I just had about a dozen uninteresting cards from you and Millie, and now, bless my soul, if here you aren't yourself—in the flesh!"

She gave him a handclasp and a hug. "And some flesh!" she added, rolling her blue eyes at their macabre dashes at him drolly. "Where's Millie?"

"She's here... she's not so well... and she's kind of keeping to herself," Roger stood, gallantly, though somewhat unsteadily.

"Isn't that awful?" Kate swept on. "All this scandal about Isobel Vane?"

"What do you mean?" Thornley's voice was sober and very sharp.

"Her murder, of course! You must know about that. The papers have been full of it. But that's not the juiciest bit," Kate chuckled richly, without malice but with the love of gossip that goes to the making of Broadway.

"Well," Roger's attitude was strained. "What is the 'juiciest bit'?"

"Her lovers!" Kate laughed. "A most famous detective—who I prefer not to name—came to me, and wanted to know the names of all her lovers. My God! What a memory he must think I have!"

"Did you tell him?" The same serious tone from Roger which caused all three of his gay party to look at him curiously.

"Certainly I did... all that I could," Kate laughed up at Roger Thornley. "You needn't look so white and frightened," she said. "You were only one of many."

Humming softly to herself she moved away across the dance floor. Silence settled at the table of Roger Thornley, broken by the tinkling laughter of Gerry as she asked for another drink.

Inspector Ingles turned from the phone and looked at Lawrence Vane—his eyes were hard and bitter.

"So, that body isn't the body of your wife, eh?" he sneered. "Well, you'll have to think up a better one."

than that. You just heard me answer the phone, and I guess you know well enough what the report was that gave me. Isobel's mother has been down to the morgue and has identified the body, beyond a shadow of a doubt, as that of her daughter."

A look of utter bewilderment settled on Vane's haggard face.

"Her mother?" he repeated. Isobel's mother? Why she always told me that both her parents were dead. She said they died when she was a tiny thing—in an accident of some sort. She'd always been on her own. That was one of the reasons one felt so sorry for her."

"Well, her mother isn't dead—that was just one of her stories to make men sorry for her," snapped Ingles.

A short time before Vane had flared out at the Inspector when he had spoken in a derogatory manner of Isobel's character—now, however, the look of bewilderment remained, and no longer came into his eyes.

"Her mother," he repeated dully. "And she's identified the body." "This makes it look worse than ever for you," Ingles said bluntly. "Cyrus K. Mantel had sat quietly during this scene, gently stroking his right eyebrow with his pinched fingers."

"You're a nice cheerful soul, Ingles," he said now.

"Well, it's true, though not cheerful," Ingles persisted. "You'll have to agree with me that things look worse than ever with this new development—the only chance he had was in making his story stick that the body was not that of his wife. Now he hasn't a chance."

"I do not agree with you at all," said Cyrus K. gently.

"You don't agree that a definite identification of the body as that of Isobel makes it worse for Vane?" Ingles argued.

"Yes, I agree with you there."

"Well, then," triumphed Ingles, "surely this is definite enough. Her mother ought to know."

"Yes, Her mother ought to know," Cyrus K. was mild. "But I repeat, Mr. Ingles, that I do not agree with you!"

The Inspector threw up his hands in mock surrender, shrugged his heavy shoulders, and said:

"Anything more you want from me right now, Mr. Mantel?"

"Yes, I'd be very happy if you would call up your expert, and get the report on those finger prints we're interested in."

"Sure, I'll do it right away—he ought to be ready with it by now."

Ingles took up the telephone again—as he did so, a whimsical thought came into the mind of Cyrus K. Mantel.

What a dreadful instrument that little innocent black contraption was, to be sure—worse by far than any torture appliance of the days of Torquemada—the Spanish Inquisition in their most fertile moments had never invented anything quite so tragically terrible as this—for in those days of horror unspeakable, at least the victim knew, when he

PICNIC PLANS ARE COMPLETED

Columbiana Community Frolic at Youngstown Wednesday

COLUMBIANA, June 22.—Ray W. Fisher, general chairman for the Columbiana community picnic to be held at Idora park, Youngstown, next Wednesday has announced the completed program. The picnic has been revived after a lapse of three years and is being held under the auspices of the Columbiana American Legion band. Stores and factories will be closed all day and the Kenmar Furniture Co. of New Waterford is joining in the celebration.

Charles Fisher, Roy Esswein and Joe Hoffman are in charge of publicity and Raymond Candel is head of the contest committee and will have charge of the various contests. Parking will be free on the park grounds from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. The band will give several concerts during the day, the first at 11:30. The baseball grounds from 1 to 3 will be reserved for Kenmar employees, but between 4 and 5:30 a baseball game will be played by the Richardson Tires and St. Stanislaus nine of Youngstown.

Dancing will be half price during the afternoon and other amusements will be specially priced. In addition to the contests, several other prizes will be given, including an occasional chair by the Kenmar Co. and merchandise prizes by the local A. & P. Co. men.

Prizes Offered

Beginning at 10 a. m. the special events will be as follows: 50-yard dash for boys age 8 to 12, prize, shirt and necktie donated by Tidd's department store; 75-yd. dash for girls 12 to 15, prize, camera donated by E. A. It's Just Cut Out To Go Places

"Action!" says this shirtmaker frock, made from our Anne Adams pattern. It's just cut out to go places—shopping, calling, motoring to business. It's tailored, yet feminine; youthful, yet dignified. The bodice is cut comfortably cool and full; the front skirt pleat (open below the knee) gives perfect freedom in walking. And isn't it a clever touch to have that smart pocket repeat the cut of the yoke? But the yoke itself is the final stroke of genius—the novel and stunning way Anne Adams has used the material to contrast with itself! This particular frock is made of washable silk broadcloth. But you can get equally stunning effects from this easy-to-use pattern—with striped silk shirting, silk shantung or sheer wool. And in seersucker, cot on shirting or gingham—this Anne Adams model is a perfect dear! Pattern is available in sizes 14 to 20; 32 to 42.

HOLY TRINITY ENGLISH LUTHERAN

East State st. at Woodland ave. Rev. George D. Keister, pastor. First Sunday after Trinity. Sunday school 9:45 (Acts 13:1-12). Lewis Hirst, supt.

The Christian church has been missionary in spirit from the very beginning. It began with a program of seeking and saving. It began to reach out and take its blessings to every class and condition of man. The narrow confines of Palestine were soon left behind and peoples of other lands were to receive the abundant blessings of the Christian faith. The Christian Gospel was something worth having and the possessors of it were eager to have others enjoy the blessings of Jesus Christ, the Savior. In times when the Church has been most zealous about mission work then has the life of the Church been at its height. Mission work is the pulse of the Church.

Morning worship 11:00. Sermon: "This Unpersuaded World."

It is a wise person who gives in to argument when sufficient is presented. It is fairness in one's nature to accept evidence that proves a point. Often in matters of the spiritual realm there are those persons who refuse to believe in the face of facts that are incontrovertible. The Bible relates an incident where an interested brother who had gone to the other world, was determined to have his brothers upon the earth avoid the unpleasant circumstances of the life after death. He pleaded for a spirit to return to warn these brothers. The request was not granted, with the statement that enough warning was already at hand, and the most unusual presentation would not change their lives and opinions. Some people have put themselves beyond persuasion. They have closed mind and soul to all of God's evidence.

Bible a Father's Message

"I am always so glad when mother gets a letter from father," said a little girl gleefully, "for he always prints something at the bottom just for me. He knows I can't read it, so he prints it for me."

Can a child of God read the Bible carefully without saying in his heart many times, "The good Father wrote those lines just for me?"

The Bible is a bold book, and it takes up courageously the greatest problems that men can face—life, death, heaven, hell. They are all there. Everywhere it gives evidence of having been written by an infinitely wise mind than man's. But again and again as we read it we instinctively say, "Why that is just what I want. I can easily understand that. It must have been written just for me!" It is the one book of the world that has something in it for all of us.

There's no doubt at all about the matter. The best thing to do Sunday—Come to church.

Sunday school with classes for all ages at 9 a. m. The pastor's class meets at 9:15 a. m.

Divine worship service at 10 a. m. The pastor will preach on the subject: "The Christian Church."

ST. JOHN A. M. E.

East Third, near Hawley ave. J. B. Cooper, minister; Roy Clarke, superintendent of Sabbath school; 9:45 study period, topic, "Christian Missions," lesson, Acts 11:6-13; 1:12 Golden Text: Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel. Mark 16:15.

The Christian is a properly authorized messenger. The dispatch that he brings is vitally important to all men, everywhere, it is the light of life.

It is a Gospel message. The hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father, in Spirit and in truth; for such doth the Father seek to be his worshippers. God is a Spirit; and they that worship Him, must worship Him in spirit and in truth—John 12:23-24.

These words of our Lord, to the woman of Samaria, are His first recorded teaching on the subject of prayer. In replying to her questions Jesus said, God is Spirit—trust Him by space, time or any finite limits. His worship is not confined by place, form or ritual. His worship must be the spirit of our life.

Vesper service at 4 p. m. Evangelistic message. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid. John 14:27. These words were designed to dispel fear and unrest, and to restore confidence in the hearts of the disciples of our Lord.

Christian Endeavor at 5:30 p. m. Miss Christine Davis, president. Topic for discussion will be announced by Mrs. Clarke. Murray F. Cooper will lead.

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 23, 1935.

The Golden Text is: "Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created." (Rev. 4:11).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Afterward Jesus findeth him in the temple, and said unto him, Behold thou art made whole: sin no more, lest a worse thing come unto thee." (John 5:14).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The scientific fact that man and the universe are evolved from Spirit, and so are spiritual, is as fixed as divine Science as is the proof that mortals gain the sense of being only as they lose the sense of being and disease." (p. 69).

Move to Aid Destitute Indian

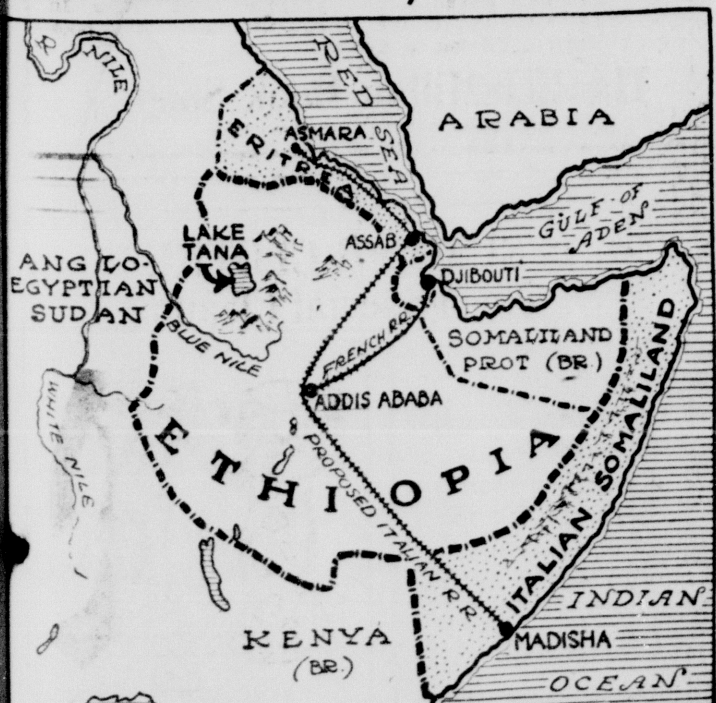

The poor Indian of eastern Oklahoma stands to receive more than $50,000 annually from his rich redskin brothers under provisions of a "share the wealth" program successfully pushed for more than three years here by A. M. Landman, superintendent of the Five Civilized Tribes. Landman recently returned from Washington where he was successful in having his "tax plan" incorporated into the present Indian bill of rights being considered by Commissioner John Collier and members of congress. For example an estate worth $25,000 would be taxed only $62.50 a year. Landman's proposal imposes a tax of one-fourth of one per cent of the gross amount of income received during any one year from restricted lands, whether by way of sale, or from oil or gas leases.

Jesse Owens Takes 4 Qualifying Events In N.C.A.A. Tourney

Ohio State Flash Seems To Carry Whole Burden of His Team Mates Against Strong Southern California Athletes Today

(By Associated Press)

BERKELEY, Calif., June 22.—It was Jesse Owens against University of Southern California today as the 14th national collegiate athletic association track and field classic swung into the finals.

Although the odds were slim, the Ohio State Negro sophomore and his few teammates still lined up as a distinct threat to a powerful Trojan squad which led the preliminaries yesterday with a dozen qualifiers.

Ohio State, principally Owens, was tied for second with University of California, each having qualified six. Owens running slightly under wraps, qualified easily in his four events.

He raced to an easy 9.7 seconds win in the 100-yard dash, leaped 26 feet, 1-8 inches on the first of only two attempts to crack a national collegiate record, literally leaped through a 21.3 seconds furlong and clipped off a 220-yard flight of low hurdles in 23.6 seconds.

As 23,000 assembled to witness the finals, Owens was called upon virtually to defeat Southern California singlehanded. In addition, he had to match his skill against Glenn "Slats" Hardin, Louisiana state's great low hurdler, and decide two long-discussed arguments about his merits as compared with George Anderson, University of California sprinter.

Two national collegiate records have already fallen, one by Owens when he shot out 26 feet, 1-8 inches in the broad jump to erase the mark of 25 feet 10 7-8 inches set by De Hart Hubbard, Michigan Negro, in 1925.

Charles Congloff of Pittsburgh set the other new standard with his heave of 221 feet, 3 1-8 inches in the javelin. The former record of 220 feet, 11 5-8 inches, was made by Bob Parke, of Oregon a year ago. Parke failed to qualify yesterday because of a sore arm.

SPORTS Chatter

By JACK BALLANTINE

Down in Columbus they're always telling stories about what a "real" guy Francis Schmidt, Ohio State's football coach is. Schmidt eats, talks, and sleeps football and that's what the downtown coaches of the capital city want when they looked for a new coach.

There is hardly a time in the day when Schmidt's mind and when he gets it down on paper and then uses what material he can find to see how it will work. Here's a typical example of Schmidt in action. He is sitting in his office at Ohio State's gymnasium when a new play enters his mind. He immediately gets "Doc" Duffey, team physician in his office, and makes a fullback out of him. Next, he locates Miss Finch, secretary. Athletic Director St. John and instructs her in the playing of quarterback and with himself playing the part of both half-backs puts the play in action. After several practice runnings of the play Schmidt stops, looks at Duffey and says, "Well Doc, that one's a honey. I don't believe I can stop it myself."

It was a crushing blow those East Liverpool Junior Legion backsliders dealt the Columbiana Junior Legion at the Pottery city when the Columbiana boys bowed to the Liverpool lads, 15 to 5.

That fine old flourish of tearing off your football headgear and tossing it to the sidelines will not be tolerated in high school football games under the control of the Ohio School Athletic association this year.

The association's board of control, meeting here, ruled that if a player abandons his headgear he is subject to banishment from the game. The board also ruled that passes will be permitted any where behind the line of scrimmage; that officials have the authority to protect the forward passes by penalty and that an out-of-bounds ball is to be brought in 15 yards, not ten. Otherwise the board approved the football rules of the National Collegiate Athletic association.

CHICAGO, June 22.—Roman Soldier, bargain horse of the American turf, was after another $25,000 prize today.

The game little black three-year-old has been installed as favorite to triumph in the $25,000 added American Derby at a mile and a quarter at Washington Park this afternoon. If victorious, the son of Cohort-Miamba will be back in the running for the three-year-old championship of 1935, as a challenger to Omaha.

With prospects for fair weather, a crowd of 25,000 spectators as expected. The field of four fillies and nine colts included all the outstanding three year olds of the nation except Omaha, winner of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont stakes.

The field may be reduced to ten before post time, around 5 p. m. Eastern Standard time. Indications were the track would be slow due to recent heavy rains.

Roman Soldier, victorious in six out of ten starts this year, and never out of the money, probably will go to the post a 7 to 5 favorite, with Col. Edward R. Bradley's great fillies, Black Helen and Bloodroot, as second choice at 5 to 2. Next in line as public choice was Count Arthur, son of Reigh Count, winner of the Kentucky Derby in 1926, the entry of Mrs. John D. Hertz, of Chicago. The Chicago-owned Nellie Flaz, Kentucky Derby favorite also drew considerable support. The entry of Walter M. Jeffords, Firehorn and Judy O'Grady also was fancied.

Sam Parks Jr., U. S. Open champion is shown in action on the East Liverpool Country club links where he played an exhibition match Thursday. Upper left, Parks ready to smash the ball off the tee. Center, Parks executing an approach shot. Right, Joe Wells, former Ohio amateur champion, shoots one to beat. Below, Parks lining up a put on the eighth green.

Colonels Knock Saints Down Peg

Louisville Wins Fourth Straight From St. Paul Friday

CHICAGO, June 22.—The Louisville Colonels haven't been able to do anything about getting out of the American association cellar, but they have just finished a handsome job of shaking St. Paul out of the first division.

Ken Bremer's team yesterday won their fourth straight decision over St. Paul, 7 to 3, dumping the Saints out of the first four in the standing for the first time this season. Truett Sewell held the Saints to eight well spaced hits, while his mates batted Mills out of action with a six run blast in the eighth inning.

Minneapolis increased its margin over Indianapolis for first place by whipping the Indians, 6 to 5, making it four in a row. The Indians out-hit Minneapolis 10 to 7, and made three home runs.

Ernie Wingard's triple drove in Eddie Marshall who had singled, to give Milwaukee a 6 to 5 victory over Toledo in 10 innings. Marshall also thumped out a homer with two on to lead the Brewers.

Columbus scored five runs in the 13th inning to defeat Kansas City, 9 to 4, in a night game. The Red Birds piled up 19 hits, to 10 by the Blues.

River Conditions Postpone Regatta

NEW LONDON Conn., June 22.—Harvard and Yale today resumed the task of clearing up their 73rd regatta, the four-mile varsity classic postponed for the first time since Spanish American war days because the placid Thames all of a sudden got an idea, apparently, that it was as tough as the Hudson off Poughkeepsie.

Not since 1898, 37 years ago, has it been necessary to postpone a Harvard-Yale boat race because of river conditions off the old whaling port.

While thousands lined the banks and the president of the United States rode the river in the referee's launch, the old Thames suddenly went berserk.

Shorts In Sports

Parker Trys New Serve CHICAGO, June 22.—Frank Parker, a star still in the experimental stage as far as he and his coach were concerned, was the target of cheers and jeers alike today as he adopted a "guinea pig" role in the midst of his fight to retain the national clay court tennis championship.

At the request of his coach, Mercer Beasley, the 18-year-old Milwaukee youth experimented with a strange shot, a new forehand with a twist that gives it the effect of a delayed drop. The stroke starts out like any other forehand, meeting the ball flat, with a quick cut under the pellet gives it the chop effect the ball floating with the "greatest ease" at his opponent.

SHARKEY PLANS COMEBACK BOSTON, June 22.—Jack Sharkey, tavern keeper and former heavyweight fight champion, today, toyed with the idea of a comeback.

He'd fight, he said, if he could meet Jimmy Braddock, present titleholder, without having to battle his way through a series of elimination contests. He knocked out Braddock in three rounds in 1929.

LISBON FIGHT CARD TONIGHT

George Raffa To Face Louie Hussler In Feature Bout

LISBON, June 22.—Fight fans will have an opportunity of sitting in on one of the first boxing shows here in several years tonight in the American Legion home.

Hugh Evans, a local boy, will attempt to beat Young Dickey of Salem in the curtain raiser. Dickey is the American Legion District champion of the 112-pound class.

Vito Rubino, local middleweight, will meet Young Chapman, of East Liverpool. In the main event fans will see George Raffa, of East Liverpool, who recently won a decision from Troy Bellini, National A. A. U. champion of the 126-pound class, matched against Louie Hussler, a local youth.

Ed Carter, of Rogers, will face Bob McShane of East Liverpool, both weighing 160 pounds.

Evans Evans, local lightweight, will meet Earl Harris of Martins Ferry.

Russ Kelley of Salem and Young Dieretta of Wellsville will also appear on the card.

Roumanians Face Campbell Sunday

The Salem Roumanians baseball club will play the Campbell nine at 1 p. m. Sunday on the Centennial park diamond. The Campbell Roumanians are considered the strongest team in the Roumanian league.

All Salem players are asked to report at the Roumanian hall at 12:15 p. m. Sunday. A picnic at Helpman's farm is to follow the game.

Cops Golf Tourney

COLUMBUS, June 22.—Miss Sally Elson, of the Wyandot Country club, Columbus, won the Franklin county women's golf championship over the Scioto club course today, defeating Mrs. E. H. McFarland, of Zanesville, 4 and 3.

FREDDIE LINDSTROM, Cubs—Led attack on Boston pitching with double and four singles.

LEFTY GROVE, Red Sox—Shut out Browns with three hits in six-inning game.

JOHNNY VERGEEZ, Phillies—Clouted home run with bases full and scored tie to bat Cardinals.

VERNON KENNEDY, White Sox—Limited Athletics to seven hits, scored two runs and batted in two in 5-3 victory.

DON BRENNAN, Reds—Shut out Dodgers with seven hits.

Lynwood Rowe Grants Yanks Only Four Puny Hits, 7-0

By HUGH G. FULLERTON Associated Press Sports Writer
If the Detroit Tigers recapture the American league pennant this season it apparently wouldn't be amiss for them to vote a share of the world series proceeds to Lynwood Rowe junior.

One of the difficulties that beset Manager Mickey Cochrane this spring was that Lynwood Rowe senior—the famous "schoolboy"—wasn't pitching according to last year's form and couldn't be persuaded to take the business of throwing the ball over the plate seriously.

But since a son and heir appeared some ten days ago it seems to be a different Rowe out there on the hill, leaving down all the time and that has made a world of difference to the Tigers. He followed up a three-hit flinging performance against the Red Sox, which might have been dismissed as natural jubilation by limiting the Athletics to six blows and yesterday by shutting out the league leading Yankees with four puny singles to gain a 7 to 0 triumph.

That victory, despite three straight losses to the Yanks, put Detroit only a game and a half behind the White Sox and Indians, who wound up in a virtual tie for second place.

Chicago moved back into second place with a 5 to 3 victory over the Athletics behind young Vernon Kennedy's seven-hit pitching even though Jimmie Foxx belted his 13th homer for the A's. Cleveland's game with Washington was rained out, as was the greater part of the Boston-St. Louis twin bill. With Lefty Grove in for mand Carl Reynolds and Mel Almada hitting homers, the Red Sox pulled out a 3-0 decision in six innings that were played before the storm struck.

Lake Placencia Host On Sunday To E. Palestine

GAMES SUNDAY
East Palestine at Placencia.
East Liverpool at Sebring.
Kensington at Salineville.

The Salem Merchants, who were to play East Palestine there Friday afternoon in a county league tilt, were rained out. The Merchants have no game scheduled for Sunday, neither has Lisbon.

Lake Placencia on Sunday will be host to the East Palestine team on the Placencia diamond in a game that is scheduled to start at 2:30 p. m.

Other county baseball league games on Sunday will see East Liverpool's Laughlin Chinas at Sebring to face the Mitchelltree Grocers and Kensington playing at Salineville.

Next Wednesday the Salem Merchants are to meet Lake Placencia at lake field.

TWELVE CITIES IN SAXON MEET

Local Transylvanians Are Host To Athletes On July 4

Hundreds of Junior Saxons from clubs in 12 different cities will come here July 4 for the annual Transylvania association track meet for Junior members. The tourney will be held in the morning within the confines of Reilly stadium.

The deadline for entries has been extended to June 30, officials announced today. The local Junior Saxon tracksters are holding practice sessions almost every evening now in hopes of keeping many of the track laurels at home.

Special Saxon day attractions will be held in conjunction with the track meet here. The Saxons girls will compete in a meet of their own and a softball game to determine the Saxon league championship also will be held.

Dances will be held in both the afternoon and evening.

Vaughn, Johnson Hold Supremacy In Loop Batting

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, June 22.—Bob Johnson was left as the lone upholder of the Athletics' batting supremacy in the American league to a day after the rise of Washington and Cleveland clouters during the past week had shoved his teammates out of the picture. His own batting average wasn't anything like it was a couple of weeks ago.

During the week which ended with yesterday's games as he hit safely only seven times in 25 trips to the plate, dropping from .382 to .370. That made his total loss for the past two weeks 36 points.

Meanwhile George "Mule" Haas, a former Philadelphia, now wearing Chicago livery, regained his rating as a "regular" by passing this week's minimum of 125 times at bat and slipped into second place, vacated by Wally Moses of the A's.

Arky Vaughan, National league leader, was kept idle all week by a charley horse but none of his rivals approached his .400 average. Joe Medwick just maintained his .350 mark with eight hits in 22 times up while pepper Martin dropped one point to .336.

Louis-Carnera Fight Expected By Manager To Bring In $400,000

Biggest Money Match of Season, In Yankee Stadium Tuesday Night; Dopesters Pick Detroit Negro Sensation to Crack Down Italian

By ALAN GOULD, Associated Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK, June 22.—The famous crack of Bob Fitzsimmons' bat was paraphrased nowadays to read "the bigger they are, the harder they fall."

Primo Carnera, biggest pugilist ever to wear the heavyweight crown, helped draw the largest "gate" last year, $428,000, when he lost the fight to Max Baer. The huge Italian will figure in the biggest money-match of the current fight season when he squares off against 21-year-old Louis, sensational Detroit Negro, next Tuesday night at the Yankee stadium.

Promoter Mike Jacobs today predicted the bout would draw $400,000 or just about double the size of the "gate" for the Baer-Baer championship match last week.

Detroit and other middle western fight centers which have made the remarkably rapid and spectacular development of Louis a knocker-out will be well represented at the ringside. Special trains will be run from the bigger eastern cities, including Philadelphia and Boston.

They have been guessing wrong lately but veteran fight experts rarely have registered so emphatic a vote of approval as they have for Louis. The stories from the Negro's training camp have been mild compared to what observers are saying privately. They declare the coming of the punching power of Dempsey with the coolness of Tunney and the sagacity of that famous old black warrior, Jack Johnson.

"It may sound foolish," said a writer who has been watching from a ringside seat for upwards of 30 years, "but this youngster looks to me to be the fighter of a generation. He has everything, including confidence, speed, and terrific hitting power. He acts like a man who knows all the answers and all the angles of the trade instead of a 21-year-old kid, barely a year out of the amateur ranks."

It has been a long time since heavyweight pugilism had a so-called "black menace." The last was Harry Wills, the "Brown Panther" of New Orleans, who was decisively beaten in 1926 by Jack Sharkey.

Newcomer Blasts Hopes of Lasky

Ford Smith, a comparative unknown from Kalispell, Mont., was the villain who gave Lasky the cut and knocked his hopes of meeting Braddock in the new champ's first title defense into the discard. Smith scored a technical knockout in the sixth round of a ten-round match here last night. He surprised the fans by taking the Jewish battler's heaviest blows and at times even out-boxing his more widely-known opponent.

The big Montanan weighed 207 as compared with Lasky's 197.

I. A. C.'s To Meet Westville Lakes

Westville Lake will be the opponent for the I. A. C. Merchants Sunday when the Salem baseball team travels to Westville lake for a game. The game has been called for 2:30 p. m.

All players have been asked to meet at John DeRienzo's home at 12:30 p. m. The Italians will be seeking their second victory of the season this week.

THIS FINE 67-ACRE FARM, ALL-EQUIPPED MUST BE SOLD ON ACCOUNT OF THE SUDDEN DEATH OF THE OWNER

This farm is one of the best farms in Columbiana County which the crops will prove to you. It is improved with a good, new bank barn, strictly sanitary for milking. Manure shed and manure carrier. Milk house and all other outside buildings needed. Good eight-room house. Both house and barn under slate.

A very choice herd of 10 Holstein Cows. A first class team of Belgian and Persheron mares, fine for raising colts as well as doing the farm work. Fine set of farm machinery, practically new, such as side delivery loader, manure spreader and all the other tools used on a farm. This man was a real farmer and rotated his fields, having 7 1/2 acres in each field. One of the finest pieces of oats and corn that can be shown anywhere. I am offering this whole outfit for just the price of the barn which was built four years ago at $5,500.00. This price includes the equipment and all growing crops. If you are interested, see me at once as this farm will soon be in the hands of a new owner.

of "a sum which would enable (it) to begin to pull itself out of the educational inefficiency resulting from the lean years of the deep depression, and to begin to resume its program of virile and vital and expected educational and service leadership in this great commonwealth."

He said also he was "endeavoring to uphold the cause of state-supported higher education in Ohio represented also by Bowling Green State, Kent State, Miami and Ohio universities."

450 Courses Suspended

Figures showing that at one time the university suspended 450 courses and released 229 full time teachers and placed 67 more on part time were cited by Dr. Rightmire. He said that for two years the university had been unequal to the task of performing work thoroughly and effectively.

Despite huge enrollment, increases, President Rightmire added, the university carried on under the smallest appropriation made in 10 years.

The Cleveland Chamber of Commerce congratulated Governor Davey on his budget-slashing, but the Columbus chamber in a resolution urged "immediate restoration of any cuts which may injure the university."

Law In Effect

COLUMBUS, June 22 — The new Ohio liquor law dealing with the levying of taxes and the definition of wines, liquors and intoxicating beverages, became effective immediately after the bill was signed by Governor Davey and filed with the secretary of state, Atty Gen. John W. Bricker said today. The tax commission requested the decision.

Senate Will Probe Alaskan Condition

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 22 — The senate will look into food and health conditions among government relief colonists at Palmer, Ala.

Harry L. Hopkins' aides indicated he would furnish promptly a report requested by the secretary yesterday after Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) had read a telegram from two of the colonists. The message asserted that no houses or roads had been built, that tools and government food had not been delivered, and that commissary prices were exorbitant.

Vandenberg also read a letter from one of the colonists in which it was said that nearly all of the 2,000 settlers—transported to Alaska from drought-stricken Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota farms—were ill and that an epidemic was feared because of lack of medical supplies.

Hopkins' relief administrator, declined to comment, but his assistants said the senate's request for information would be met promptly. Eugene Carr, a rural rehabilitation official, has been sent to Palmer to take charge, they said.

Senators LaFollette (Prog. Wis.) and Shipstead (F. L.-Min.) joined Vandenberg in the demand for a report.

Dust Is Helpful

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 22 — Two months after Oklahoma farmers see the silver lining of their early spring cloud of dust.

Frank M. Filson, fertilizer specialist for a packing company, said nitrogen, phosphates, lime and potash in volcanic ash that settled on Oklahoma during the terrifying dust storms of April were responsible largely for the abundant green of state pastures today.

Presbyterians Meet

WOOSTER, June 22 — Delegates began to arrive today for the Ohio Presbyterian convocation. The Synodical society opened its sessions last night with Mrs. C. R. Adams of Springfield, president, presiding.

Father Believes Daughter "Tool" in Kidnap Plot

Thulin home in Salt Lake City

Julius Thulin

Margaret Thulin Waley, Weyerhaeuser kidnap suspect now under arrest, reared in a humble home in Salt Lake City, is the victim of a too hasty love affair according to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Thulin. The father claims she was merely the "tool" used to pass the ransom money. They still have faith in her and defend her as an unknown victim who was exploited by her husband. Both mother and father are standing by her and hope to gain clemency for their daughter whose arrest followed her purchase of a cigaret case with some of the $200,000 paid to ransom George Weyerhaeuser. Federal agents were aided in their chase by Julius Thulin, grandfather.

Theater Attractions

"Public Hero Number 1" starts off the week's bill at the State theater Sunday. Chester Morris, Lionel Barrymore, Jean Arthur, Joseph Calleia and Paul Kelly make up the list of stars in the film, a story of the government secret service men.

Chester Morris plays an adventurous character who defies death, goes to prison, trails a dangerous band of criminals, and finally brings to justice the country's greatest public enemy.

Joseph Calleia, famous for his performance in "Public Hero Number 1" is the gangster overlord. Lionel Barrymore has a great role as a doctor of the underworld.

Romance in Film, Also

The romantic angle of the story is deftly handled by Jean Arthur and Chester Morris. Paul Kelly portrays the head of the secret service and Lewis Stone the prison warden. Much has been written about the performance of Joseph Calleia, in this film. He made quite a hit in the New York stage success, "Small Miracle," and his portrayal of a criminal in "Public Hero Number 1" has been greatly praised by the critics. "He brings a new face to the screen, one you are not likely to forget for some time to come," is one writer's opinion of him.

More adventures of Charlie Chan come to the State Tuesday and Wednesday. This time he is in Egypt in a story entitled "Charlie Chan in Egypt."

Warner Oland again is Charlie Chan and with him are Pat Paterson, Thomas Beck and Stepin Fetchit.

Pricedless gold and jeweled treasures are stolen, a killer strikes and Charlie Chan is assigned to trace the crime.

Along with the mystery yarn, the Baer-Braddock fight pictures will be shown, blow-by-blow and round-by-round.

"Naughty Marietta" Returns

Thursday the State will show a return engagement of the Victor Herbert musical, "Naughty Marietta," by popular demand of Salem movie fans.

Katherine Hepburn's new picture, "Break of Hearts," rounds out the week, showing Friday and Saturday.

In this film Hepburn has the role of a young composer who marries a musician, played by Charles Boyer. The picture tells the story of the making, breaking and mending of their romance.
